This supplement applies to units and agencies located on 374th Airlift Wing (374AW) installations and to sponsors assigned or attached thereto.

SUMMARY OF REVISIONS

This revision updates organizational designations and functional address symbols, deletes instruction on providing formal education, addresses educational neglect, revises regular attendance at school sessions, deletes bus pass system, deletes the list of student misconduct on buses, deletes the bus monitor plan, and deletes parent complaints. New or revised material is indicated by a (|).

DoD 1342.6-M, August 1995, is supplemented as follows:

C1.4.3.6.1. (Added)(374 AW). Refer cases of suspected Educational Neglect to the Air Force Family Advocacy for substantiation and treatment.

C1.4.3.6.1.1. (Added)(374 AW). Air Force Family Advocacy Program Standards, 1 July 1998, page 179, defines Educational Neglect as “Knowingly allowing the child to have extended or frequent absence from school, neglecting to enroll a child in school, preventing the child from attending school for other than justified reasons. Exception exists when a child of sufficient age has decided to terminate school attendance. Home schooling must have evidence of a designed curriculum and method to measure outcome in a home environment.”

C1.4.3.6.2. (Added)(374 AW). Inform each sponsor of their responsibility to ensure children are enrolled in an educational program. Suspected cases of educational neglect will be handled in accordance with 374 AWI 31-202, Yokota Conduct Adjudication Program (YCAP).

C1.4.3.8.1. (Added)(374 AW). Inform each sponsor of their responsibility to ensure that their dependents enrolled in Department of Defense Dependents School (DoDDS) understand and follow the rules involving school attendance. Cases of persistent truancy will be handled in accordance with 374 AWI 31-202.
